WOMAN AND HOME.

THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED PRIVATE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Progressive Conversations-She Will Not Be Familiar-How Children Are Spoiled-Brilliant Lady Macdonald-A Wom-

Every state in the Union has been generus to the public schools-munificent individuals have built and endowed with lav ish hands universities and colleges for young men, and within the last two decades woman has had doled out to her, with great reluctance, with much reserve and many misgivings, some of the crumbs which fall from the tables of the great universities. And four colleges, exclusively for women, have been built and generously endowed.

The question as to her capacity to receive this blessing is not yet decided, and the fear that it will subvert the purposes of nature and unfit her for the functions of nestic life is finding nervous and incoherent expression in the periodical litera ure and after dinner speeches of the day Meanwhile there is a great and powerful arm of the educational force of this country which has no literature, no written his tory, which is seldom referred to by peri-odical, scientist, or the orator of the day, except in some flippent allusion to point a moral or adorn a tale—this is the "prite school for girls."

For 200 years this institution has held a dignified and responsible place in the edu-cational and social system of this country. To this the American woman, such as she has been in times past and such as we find her today, owes the character, the culture, the grace and the embellishments which ble her to take her stand, not blushing for her ignorance or her stupidity, side by side with the cultivated and representative woman of other countries.

It has no favor from the state. Being private property it cannot hold endowments; it has paid its own taxes and sup-ported itself. European educators have marveled that American writers should leave the world to learn by accident that American ladies were not all educated in their famous public schools.

The French commissioner of education to the Centennial exhibition, whom I afterward met, could not forgive the com-mittee which waited on him in New York that it had not afforded him an opportu-nity to visit the schools in which the accomplished women whom he had met in this country were trained.—Mrs. Sylvanuz Progressive Conversations.

A new amusement particularly adapted to the traditional talent of fair women is the "progressive conversation party," which had its birth in the east. Its popularity is established by its possibilities to entertain any number of guests, though more than twenty cannot be easily man-aged. Its modus operandi is somewhat as follows: As many chairs as are required by the number of guests invited are arranged in pairs in a continuous line, one behind the other, and are yoked together with broad ribbons of different colors. The topics of conversation for the evening are announced on the invitation cards.

A card on which is written a topic of to the connecting ribbons on the chairs, and tally cards, as in progressive eucher, with a tiny ribbon bow which matches the colors on the chairs, are arranged for both ladies and gentlemen, as in the game when played with cards. When all the guests have drawn a card they take their scats according to the color designated by the tally card, the ladies on the left and the gentlemen on the right, the hostess taps a bell, and the buzz of conversation begins.

Ten minutes are allowed for each topic, and the topic on each set of chairs differs from all the others. The judges chosen pass down the line and criticise, and at the end of the time specified affix a gold star Old payers for sale at this office—25 cen on the eard of the best conversationalist, a ser hundred. The entire company change seats, the gentleman retreating one seat, the lady advancing one, and the buzz begins again, When ten changes have been made, ten topics dished up and discussed, the person having the greatest number of gold stars is the winner.-Chicago News.

> She Will Not Be Familiar. What strikes the pilgrim from other lands is the predominance of women in Boston. Women everywhere-in the restaurants, behind the funch counters, in the with this arrangement. They are more civil than the men. I only wish they could become street car conductors. Probably they may some day.

I was much amused at the attempt of one of these "foreigners" just mentioned to be-stow a small fee upon one of these young women. She drew herself up with all the hauteur of family pride-for no doubt her name was Winthrop, or Adams, or Han-cock, or Winslow-and then she remarked: Excuse me, sir, we are liberally rewarded for our services by the corporate lessees of the beach, and, consequently, the offer of any gratuity is entirely a supererogatory

How Children Are Spoiled.

It is easy enough to spoil a child. No great art is demanded. Only three or four things are requisite to complete the work. Make all the nurses wait on him and fly at his bidding; let him learn never to go for a drink, but always have it brought to im; at 10 years of age have Bridget tie his shoe strings; let him strike auntle because she will not get him a sugar plum. He will soon learn that the house is his realm, and he is to rule it. He will come up into manhood one of those precious oyster, which, with knife, he will proceed a man to be virtuous; for it is alnost impossible to be good with too much bile, an enlarged spisen, or a stomach off duty. We contratulate any man who can afford to own a borse; but if a boy own

The bit will not be strong enough to rein in at the right place. There are men who all their lives have been going down hill, and the reason is that in boyhood they sprang astride a horse, and got going so fast that they have never been able to stop.—T. De Witt Talmage, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Lady Macdonald.

Lady Macdonaid, wife of Sir John, of Canadian fame, is a remarkable woman. The daughter of a West Indian merchant, Miss Bernard left Jamaica as a girl and was educated in England. At her father's old home she met the distinguished barrister, who was created a baronet the year of his marriage with the young southerner. All unused to responsibility and court eti-quette, Lady Macdonald accompanied her husband to the provinces, and by her wit, kindliness and tact soon established herself as the acknowledged head of dominion

Since her advent into Canadian circles her influence has been an unquestioned force. She is a thorough politician, has an extensive acquaintance in this country and England, and by many is thought to be the power behind the throne in the Macdonald

Like all clever and politic women, she is accomplished hostess, and at the head of her dinner table is reckoned a formidable nemy for the opposition to encounter Tall and stately, gray haired and dignified, the charm of her fine presence is only excelled by her consummate art in conversa-tion. It is highly dangerous for enemies of Sir John's policy to come too near his ascinating wife. More than once a Rad-cal voter has found his views take a different complexion altogether after a talk with the brilliant Conservative. - Illustrated American.

A Woman's Hair.

Has it never occurred to people to note he intimate relation that exists between a woman's mental processes and her back Why, a woman can't give her hair it something of her own state of mind! If she is in her loveliest and best temper her hair will go up quite of itself, seemingly, and into the easiest and most beautiful little coils. It adjusts itself at the most coming angle, and when all is done th quintessence of her amiable being breathes from the top of her head. But let the day start disastrously, let her rise with her "innard vane p'inting east," and her back hair will be the first herald of her misfortune to the world. It at once manifests a familiar demon. It takes crooked ways unto itself. It refuses to lie in any accepted pattern. Each individual hair has a theory of its own which it proceeds to carry out. She pats and coaxes and nooths, but the hair will not down, and when she comes out to the world her hair and her temper are at one in being the crookedest and most unlovely things in all the world .- New York Evening Sun.

Right Eating and the Complexion

Good diet, not limited, should be the rule, for eruptions in young people are quite as apt to indicate debilty and call for generous diet as the contrary. No ham, bacon, salt beef or salt fish, fat gravies, lard pies or puddings of the roly poly order, should allowed girls desiring good complexions. onversation is tied with a narrow ribbon | If they can est four to six large juicy pears every day they are in season it will do much for digestion and bloom. If the appetite is capricious follow its caprices till baths and wholesome bread regulate it. Keep good

It may take three to six months or a ear to cure the trouble, but I do not believe there is such a thing as incurable skin disease. Plenty of exercise and friction of the body are called for, and hot foot baths with soda in the water, to equalize circulatien. Carbolated oil, ten drops carbolic acid in two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, rubbed on the face at night, will soften and heal the cruption, if other care is taken.— Shirley Dare in New York Herald.

An Accomplished Telegrapher.

Perhaps the only society woman in New York who has any practical knowledge of telegraphy is Mrs. Collis, wife of Gen. Charles H. T. Collis, ex-general, ex-banker and present insurance magnate. Collis, who is a strikingly handsome wombe considered an expert at the art of telegraphing. She learned when Gen. Collis, then a banker, had a private wire connecting his New York and Philadelphia offices with his hundsome Fifth avenue residence Mrs. Collis icarued to telegraph that she might have little snatches of conversation with her husband during business hours or his occasional absences in Philadelphia, and so thoroughly did sheacquire a knowl edge that Gen. Collis declares that no tel-egraphic expert can click a message over wire with greater skill and firmness me a check."-New York Press.

Don't Be Afraid of Pink Sugar. A great many housekeepers do not un-derstand the use of pink sugar in cake. A tri-colored cake is very ornamental. Make one layer of pink, one of white, and one of yellow cake. The same rule serves for all, using half of pink sugar and half of white sugar for the pink layer; the yolks of three eggs in the golden layer, and the whites alone in the white layer. The angel cake rule is a very nice one for this purpose. A ayer of crab apple jelly, of white frosting flavored with orange juice or almonds, or layers of chopped raisins or chopped figs, I may be used between the layers, and a thick white icing should cover all. Pink augar costs but ten cents a pound, and can be bought at any first class confectioner's It is too deeply colored to be used wholly, but is perfectly harmless, being colored with cochineal.-New York Tribune.

The Rose Bath.

The bath of roses, so often mentioned by writers on the luxurious age of Roman life, is a comparatively cheap luxury today. The warm water, in quantity an ing to the usual requirement of the bath, is first softened by stirring into the tub finely sifted onemeal, to which also is added half a pint of glycerine; lastly put into it two drops of attar of roses. If the massage treatment be available use it by all means; if not, let a coarse towel and hard rubbing serve the purpose of the massage system. This bath is simply fine, as it softens the skin and blends perfume into each line of the body.-New York Telegram.

Save the Small Pieces of Soap.

baking powder can, soak off the label, and puncture holes in both ends by hammering a cover that his firm and close, for there must be no danger of the lid slipping off. Drop the pieces of soap isside the can and place the fid on securely. This transforms the can into a soap shaker to be used in hot water for washing dishes, where it one he will probably ride on it to destruc-tion. There will be room enough in the same saddle for idleness and dissipation in using it there will be no danger of get-in hot water for washing dishes, where it will prove to be a great convenience, and in using it there will be no danger of get-ning streams of soap on the china, which is liable to happen when a large cake of soap is used in the water with the dishes.— Youth's Companion.

In washing woolen blankets, to avoid shrinkage do not have the different waters of widely different degrees of heat, and do not apply soap directly to them. The best way is to dissolve two table-spoonfuls of borax in hot water, and add the solution to a tub half full of very hot water; put in the blankets and let them emain one hour, stirring often and rub bing with the hands, but never on a wash board. Squeeze them out of this suds, prepare another water of the same temperture containing but one tablespoonful of borax, and enough fine white scap to make a nice suds; immerse the blankets and re-pent the same process of cleaning as at first. Afterward rinse through two clean others, and dry .- Good Housekeeping.

Nursing Becoming Fashionable.

As showing that nursing is becoming fushionable, it is asserted by a writer in The British Medical Journal that Princess Helen Cusa is a nurse in the children's pospital, Jassy; Countess Asta Blucher has been nursing the invalids of Capt. Wiss mann's force at Zanzibar; Miss Godolphin-Osborne, niece of the duke of Leeds, is hair? Why, a woman can't give her hair matron of the Learnington Hospital for a twist of a morning without looping into Incurables; Ludy Leveson Gower is a nurse in one of the metropolitan hospitals, and Lady Amberley and Baroness Ebba Boswere trained at St. Mary's hospital, Paddington, a few years ago.

A Lover of Fans.

"The Swedish Nightingale," Christine Nilsson, is an enthusiast in the matter of fans. She has a collection of rare and beautiful specimens. Among the number is one which was presented to her by the ex-Empress Eugenie. It formerly belonged to Mme. Dubary; possibly it is the famous one valued at so many thousand france. Another of the fair singer's fans is one which was given to her by the crown prince of Russia, and is an exact copy of the one that belonged to the queen of Oude.-New York World.

To Put the Child Asleep.

Under no circumstances give a child drops, stimulants or sirups to produce Let the physician be made responsible for this dangerous practice. The ex-citement of being tossed and jumped by a too ardent papa, the glare of the dinner table or a tardy romping about the room eften unstring the delicate nerves and chase away sleep. Hunger is often the cause of distress at bed time, and negligence on the part of the nurse to observe it is another reason for fretfulness .- Ex-
